Don't Make These Common Mistakes When Refinancing for a Lower Rate

Hi ,

Interest rates have hit the lowest they've seen in decades and homeowners everywhere are saving money on their mortgage payments. Some are even tapping into their home's equity at low rates.

It sounds great, but refinancing isn't a one-size-fits-all approach. Not everyone benefits every time rates drop.

When you bought your home, you likely took the time to understand the mortgage process and how it works. It's just as important when you refinance. To better understand what to look out for, click the button below to see what mistakes most homeowners make.
